

POVERTY TRAP FORMED BY FEEDBACK BETWEEN ECONOMICS AND THE ECOLOGY OF INFECTIOUS DISEASES: THEORY AND EVIDENCE

Matthew Bonds, PhD

Research Associate

FXB Center for Health and Human Rights

In his research, Matthew Bonds explores relationships between ecology, infectious diseases, and economic development with a special focus on the role of healthcare in promoting economic growth in Rwanda

Thursday, November 12, 2009
12:30-1:30

Jonathan Mann Conference Room at the FXB Center
FXB Building, 7th Floor

Please bring your lunch, light refreshments will be served

Open to the public—if you do not have a Harvard picture ID please
RSVP in advance to Monika Szperka mszperka@hsph.harvard.edu

Sponsored by the François-Xavier Bagnoud Center for Health and Human Rights

